Strikers Return to Hard Coal Mines

BOW TO FDR'S ORDER TO END 22-DAY STRIKE

Most of Miners Go Back To Jobs Before Deadline Set By President.

NO DISORDER REPORTED

Cries of 'Back to Work' Ring Through Halls as 1,800 Cast Ballots.

(By Associated Press)

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. — The wildcat strike in Pennsylvania anthracite mines appeared ended today when strikers returned to their jobs in all major collieries a few hours before a back-to-work deadline set by President Roosevelt.

Only about 3,000 miners were known to be still idle. They were members of four locals, two of which announced meetings this morning to consider a back-to-work vote.

Strikers returned to the South Wilkes-Barre, Woodward, Huber and Lance collieries of the Glen Alden company and the Prospect-Henry colliery of the Lehigh Valley Coal company.

David Cummings, president of the United Mine Workers' Lance colliery local, said two miners not members of the local appeared at the mouth of the colliery before the starting whistle blew but left at his request. There was no disorder.

The Exeter colliery local of Wayne Coal company, with 800 members, and the Old Washington colliery, with 400 workers, scheduled voting meetings this morning.

President Roosevelt had said the government would take the "necessary steps" to reopen the mines this afternoon unless the 22-day unauthorized walkout ended. The warning was widely interpreted to mean troops would be used.

The ranks of the strikers, once numbering 23,000, were thinned again last night when three unions decided to return.

Like unions taking similar action previously, they did not discuss strike issues—demands for a five day wage bonus and a 50-

CITY TO BE IN AREA PEGGING LABOR TO JOBS

Cleveland Reports Indicate Manpower Board to Make Order Soon.

ADDS OTHER DISTRICT

Lorain County Section To Be Acted Upon Soon; Ashland, Marion in District.

Mansfield and Richland county will soon be included in a "controlled area" in the War Manpower Commission's labor stabilization program intended to reduce manpower turnovers and "pirating" of workers, it was indicated today in dispatches from Cleveland.

John G. Routzon, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce, said that while the chamber has not been officially advised of such action, he had been given to understand that Mansfield along with Marion and Ashland counties will be so designated within the near future.

Labor management committees probably will be appointed to set up a program of job "freezing" regulations designed to prevent labor "piracy" on the part of employers and job-shopping on the part of employes.

Meanwhile in Cleveland today four more counties were added to the WMC's Cleveland area which "pegged" more than 300,000 Cuyahoga county workers in essential jobs as of Jan. 6. The expanded area including the industrial districts of Lorain, Lake, Ashtabula and Geauga counties will be under the administration of Dr. William P. Edmunds, Cleveland WMC director.

Possibly the first committee would be named for the Lorain-Elyria district because of the volume of war goods produced there.

Under the Cuyahoga county stabilization plan, workers in essential industries must obtain "statements of availability" from their present employers or the U. S. Employment Service before shifting to other jobs.

The success of the plan admittedly depends upon the co-operation of employers and employes but Dr. Edmunds said it already has greatly reduced complaints in the Cleveland area.

Fall of Duce's African Empire Waited Hourly

British Eighth Army Drives to Within 85 Miles of Libyan Stronghold Abandoned by Rommel; Soviets Forge New Kharkov Pincers.

(By Associated Press)

Final collapse of Premier Mussolini's African empire appeared to be only a matter of hours today amid signs that Field Marshal Erwin Rommel was hastily abandoning the burning city of Tripoli, and British 8th army columns stormed forward within 35 miles of the Axis stronghold.

Tripoli is the last citadel of Italy's Dark Continent domain which once embraced Eritrea, Italian Somaliland, Abyssinia, Cirenaica and Tripolitania.

A bulletin from Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's 8th army headquarters said British troops yesterday captured the towns of Tarhuna and Homs, respectively 40 and 56 miles from Tripoli, and continued their pursuit of Rommel's fleeing armies.

Frontline dispatches said Rommel's troops and equipment were already streaming westward from Tripoli toward the Tunisian frontier, 100 miles away, with Allied planes making a shambles of the enemy's line of retreat.

A 50-mile stretch of coastal road between Tripoli and Zuara was described as littered with the bombed and bullet-smashed wreckage of trucks and other equipment.

British headquarters indicated Tarhuna and Homs fell early yesterday and said "during the day our troops were in close contact with the enemy retreating to the west."

For the moment, the downfall of Mussolini's once proud African realm eclipsed other events, but vital developments were shaping elsewhere in the global war:

RUSSIA—Red army troops, now driving 50 miles into the Ukraine, were reported forging a new pincers threat to the big steel city of Kharkov, the Soviet "Pittsburgh," after a 17-mile advance to the southeast.

Other Soviet columns were reported sweeping through the southeastern Ukraine toward the Sea of Azov in a move to close a steel arc around Rostov, whose fall would cut off the land "escape corridor" of perhaps 500,000 Axis troops fighting in southern Russia.

FAR PACIFIC—Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters announced American and Australian jungle fighters "further reduced the enemy's remaining positions" on the Papuan peninsula in New Guinea, and a spokesman declared:

"The whole thing is crumbling."

Dispatches said survivors of a 15,000-man Japanese army, now reduced to a hungry mere hundreds, were making desperate attempts to break out of the Allied traps. There was heavy fighting.

WESTERN AIR WAR—London counted a known toll of 44 children and teachers killed yesterday when German raiders, attacking in the biggest daylight raid since the battle of Britain, bombed a school in the capital. Three teachers were killed, the rest were children. Fifty others were injured, and rescue workers dug in the wreckage for victims still pinned under tons of masonry.

Scattered German night raiders touched off four alarms in London before dawn today, and two Nazi planes were shot down.

In the African campaign, Rommel's battered forces were now pinned down to a narrow strip along the Mediterranean coast as the British 8th army moved swiftly upon Tripoli from the east and Brig.-Gen Jacques Leclerc's Fighting French troops drove up from the south after a 1,000-mile march across the Sahara desert from

SCHOOLS OPEN AS COLD EASES

All Buildings in Operation First Time in Week; Warmer Weather Predicted.

For the first time in a week all Richland county schools were in session today and work of road maintenance crews had returned to normalcy as rising temperatures yesterday removed the ice and a great part of the snow that has prevailed for the past several days.

Whereas all schools of the county, except Plymouth and Shiloh, had been closed Monday, all but two, Madison and Union, had reopened yesterday.

Despite the number of collisions on the ice, toll of accidents in the storm period was unusually low, officials reported.

The state highway department reported today that all roads north of a line marked by Greenville, Columbus, Millersburg and Youngstown are still slippery in spots. Route 95 is closed from the junction of Route 89 to Blachleyville, Wayne county. The balance of the roads in the state are normal.

'County of the Month' War Bond Banner Given Richland

For "service above and beyond regular duty" Richland county was honored last night as Ohio's "county of the month" for its November war bond sales record.

As soon as arrangements can be made, a special "Minute Man" flag, presented to Paul M. Eliot county war bond chairman, will fly below the colors in Central park.

The flag was presented to Eliot by J. B. Coleman, division manager of Standard Oil company, as other Richland county war bond workers were honored and regional winners from all over Ohio also received special recognition.

The awards were made by Harold H. Bredlow executive secretary of the Ohio war savings staff at a dinner meeting in the Mansfield-Leland hotel, attended by 125 persons, most of them Richland county bond sales workers.

In paying tribute to the Richland county bond sellers and to the regional winners, Bredlow said:

"You can't hire people to do the

JOB PAYMENTS DOUBLE IN '42

Mansfield Employment Slump Reflected in $324,060 Paid To Unemployed.

Reflecting Mansfield's employment slump during 1942 were the statistics of unemployment benefits announced today, which showed 1942's payments more than twice as high as in 1941.

Benefits in the Mansfield area in 1942 totaled $324,060.12, the report revealed, while they were $151,487.91 in 1941. December payments in 1942 amounted to $4,866.64, with the average weekly check for total unemployment amounting to $13.20 during the month. An average of 91 persons received benefits each week with new claims numbering 76.

The increase in benefits was due principally, according to C. W. Handley, U. S. Employment Service manager, to reduced personnel while plants were converting to war production. Other smaller plants made similar reductions in the period, Handley said.

Despite a five per cent decrease in the number of weeks of unemployment for which benefits were

Chile Formally Severs All Relations With Axis.

SANTIAGO—(INS)—Chile joined the rest of the Americas today in severing diplomatic relations with the Axis, leaving Argentina as the sole nation in the western hemisphere still retaining ties with Germany, Italy and Japan.

The government formally severed relations after the Chilean senate Tuesday night approved the action by a vote of 30 to 10.

President Juan Antonio Rios made an address to the Chilean people last night explaining the move. He said that Chile had a "moral obligation" to perform. The action, he added, was the only course to take "in accord with the supreme interest of Chile and America."

DEFENSIVE: Plane and Ship Losses Hitting Jap Strategy

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—The navy announced today the bombing of a Japanese destroyer off Bougainville island in the Solomons and the shooting down of eight enemy planes in the Shortland island area.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—As American airmen and ground forces continued to pound Japanese troops, bases and shipping in the Solomons, navy men today asserted that mounting Nipponese losses in planes and vessels soon may force the enemy to go on the defensive throughout the Pacific.

While the Japanese still may have a formidable navy and large merchant marine, these sources asserted that destruction wrought to date by American army and navy forces has slowed down the enemy considerably and further losses probably will turn the tide definitely in favor of the United States.

America's strengthened position in the southern Solomons was indicated clearly by the navy communique which disclosed that 1,032 Japs were killed on Guadalcanal in five days of fighting during which U. S. ground troops advanced relentlessly against the main enemy lines.

U. S. planes and submarines have continued to slash at Jap supply lines to prevent the Nipponese from rushing reinforcements and supplies to their beleaguered troops on Guadalcanal and to other important enemy bases in the Pacific.

On the basis of communiques issued in Washington, American army and navy forces alone have sunk approximately 300 Japanese vessels of all types, including more than 115 warships. This does not include ships sunk by Gen. Douglas MacArthur's forces in Australia.

This estimate also does not include hundreds of other Jap ves-

TEST ALARM

Sirens To Be Set Off at 7 Sunday For Raid Test.

Mansfield air raid sirens will be set off again Sunday at 7 p. m. but only for another test alarm to determine effectiveness of the alarms since several of the sirens have been re-located.

Only air wardens and telephonists will mobilize for the test, Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, civilian defense co-ordinator, said in making the announcement.

Wardens have been notified to take their respective posts and report to the central control center as soon as the sirens sound. This is the first time the equipment has been used since the Pearl Harbor day observance in December.

SON MISSING

OPA Director, Who Spoke In Mansfield, Gets Word.

Mansfielders who heard Birkett L. Williams, OPA regional director, when he addressed a joint meeting of service clubs at the Mansfield-Leland hotel Tuesday, were saddened today to learn his son was missing in action in Africa.

Second Lieut. William B. Williams, 23, pilot of a pursuit plane, was reported by the war department to have been missing since Jan. 11.

Herbert Doubts Assembly Can Nullify War Time In State

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—Lieut. Gov. Paul M. Herbert expressed doubt today that the Ohio legislature "properly or even patriotically" could nullify the daylight-saving war time.

The Republican lieutenant governor, who also is president of the senate, took the position that the act of congress advancing the standard time an hour was an exercise of war powers for the national defense; hence, it could not constitutionally be set aside by a state.

His statement in an interview was the first instance of a major state official taking a definite public stand on the issue. Members of the legislature have introduced 19 bills to turn back the clock an hour by removing Ohio from the eastern to the central time zone.

The senate has asked Atty. Gen. Thomas J. Herbert's opinion on whether the legislature legally could change the time, and a resolution offered in the senate requests Gov. John W. Bricker to make a "definite recommendation."

Lieutenant-Governor Herbert, after pointing out that congress

Ponder 72-Hour Week Order for Gas Retailers

Managers of Mansfield gasoline stations received orders from Washington today limiting most service station operation to a 72-hour week but stated that they had reached no conclusion concerning the time their stations would be open, adding that this new development in the rationing system would take "considerable time to plan satisfactory arrangements."

The order made by Ralph K. Davies, deputy petroleum administrator, said that the limiting of most stations to a 72-hour week was intended to enable operators to cut costs at a time of decreasing business.

The Office of Petroleum Administration directed that service stations throughout the country

SEE GASOLINE RUN IN DITCHES

Willard Residents Smell Fumes; Line Break Blamed.

WILLARD — Willard residents were excited today as they smelled gasoline fumes filtering from city sewers and saw gasoline running in ditches about a mile south of the city.

Although officials at the local pumping station of the Exeter Construction company and the general office in Attica would not comment concerning the case, they did admit that workmen were engaged in repairing the leak in an eight-inch main which runs between Lima and Akron.

The break is believed to have occurred last night as first evidence of it was observed early today.

BROWN HOLDS 'OPEN HOUSE' AT OPA OFFICE

Gets Reports of Assistants, Hears Complaints of Congress Critics.

WASHINGTON — Sidestepping matters of policy and personnel for the moment, Price Chief Prentiss M. Brown today delved in the mysteries of being an "administrator," received detailed reports from OPA division chiefs and heard the plaints of congress.

It figuratively was "open house" at OPA as the former Michigan senator swung into the hottest domestic job in the wartime capital, warned by his predecessor—Leon Henderson — that business profits are too high, that the pressure on price ceilings is constantly growing and that the future demands a "more rigorous" policy of economic stabilization.

"I came in without any knowledge of administrative duties," Brown candidly admitted. "I want to spend most of my time in the next two weeks with studying the regulations. I've read some of them and they are very voluminous.

"I also intend to open the doors the rest of this week to the members of congress."

The former senator thus gave ample indication that he was going to lend an ear to the tide of congressional criticism which contributed in good measure to the pressure which forced Henderson out of office.

He also showed foreknowledge of the fact that business, industry and farm groups will be after increased prices.

"I don't believe we can hold prices at a flat level," he said. "A slow, well-ordered rise is inevitable because of the wage factor, costs of various kinds, labor shortages and the disparity between industrial wages and farm wages."

The new OPA chief pointed out that prices had been going up about ½ per cent a month recently, but said this increase was much less than the mounting increase in the cost of living before price control went into effect.

He expressed belief that farm prices could be controlled, at least, at parity. Those that haven't reached parity, he said, are "beyond our authority."

Brown said that personnel matters in OPA will have to wait until he familiarizes himself with the jib. Some resignations already have been submitted, he disclosed.

Brown said he couldn't give any news on gasoline rationing, informing one questioner that "I feel as bad about it as you do."

WILL BLACKOUT 23 COUNTIES

Ohio Plans Pre-Spring Test In Broad Northern Industrial Area.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — Ohio's largest blackout—covering 23 northern Ohio industrial counties—will be held next month, State Defense Director Ralph H. Stone announced today.

The test, including 10,336 square miles and affecting more than 3,200,000 persons, will be held as a prelude to a statewide blackout scheduled for early spring. No definite date has been set for the test to be held in the following counties:

Northern Ohio war plants, including giant steel mills with open hearth furnaces, will shroud their operations, at least for a short time, during the trial.

More than 180,000 trained volunteers will report to their stations as planes fly overhead to check the completeness of the blackout.

Stone said the blackout would test the effectiveness of training received by civilians in previous trials and would prove "excellent experience" for air raid wardens, fire watchers, auxiliary police and firemen and other civilian defense workers.

FLYNN ACCUSER ADMITS ILLEGAL OPERATION; NEW PROBE PROMISED

(By Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES — The parents and sister of Peggy Larue Satterlee were summoned to testify in the statutory rape trial of screen actor Errol Flynn today, as police officers declared they would demand investigation of her statement that she underwent an operation which the state stipulates was an abortion.

Miss Satterlee, tall, graceful and brunet, who charges she was twice ravished by Flynn, admitted under driving cross-examination yesterday that an operation had been performed upon her, inferentially during the period between the week-end cruise she made aboard Flynn's yacht Sirocco in August, 1941, and the time of her questioning last fall concerning that episode.

Lieut. Robert W. Bolling and Sgt. Edward Walker of the police juvenile control division, who were investigators in the Flynn case, stated after the close of the day's court session they would take action as soon as the Flynn trial is concluded.

"We questioned the Satterlee girl again and again about other men in her life, and she denied there had been any," said Lieut. Bolling. "Now this comes as a complete surprise to us. We certainly shall do something about it. If her statement is true, a crime was committed and an investigation is imperative."

The name of the man involved was not mentioned in her cross-examination by Jerry Giesler, Flynn's attorney, which elicited testimony on Miss Satterlee's part that she had told Deputy District Attorney Thomas W. Cochran of the operation in relating incidents of her life. The latter stipulated that the operation in question was an abortion.

The evidence, Superior Judge Leslie E. Still cautioned the jury, was introduced solely for the purpose of showing the state of mind and motive of the witness in giving her testimony.

"Did you not request the district attorney's office that they would not prosecute that man?" Giesler asked her. "And did they not promise they would not prosecute that man if you testified in this case?"

Miss Satterlee said she had made such a request but had been given no such asurance.

Giesler obtained admissions from Miss Satterlee that in obtaining work at various theaters and dancing and eating places, she had given her age as 18, or in places where liquor was sold, 21. She said also that her state driver's license, which she used in establishing her age, gave it as 18.

GETS PAYMENTS

County T. B. Group Says Many Paying Up For Yule Seals.

Payments for Christmas Seals have been coming in favorably in the past few days, according to a report by Mrs. Margaret S. Adams, executive secretary of the Richland County Tuberculosis association which meets in January session Monday.

"Many regular subscribers merely have neglected to mail in their checks or cash for the stamps sent them," in the opinion of Mrs. Adams, and the Walpark building office of the association will remain open until Feb. 15 to receive delinquent payments.

Funds derived from the Christmas Seal sales are used in a year-around battle against tuberculosis in Mansfield and Richland county, the U. S. Public Health association, the Richland county unit and the city-county health department co-operating.

Up and Down THE STREET

Many airmail letters addressed to soldiers overseas will never reach their destination—due to short-paid postage—unless they carry return addresses so that they can be returned to the sender by the Mansfield postoffice for sufficient postage. An increasing amount of mail weighing more than half an ounce but bearing only six cents postage is being received by the department, Postmaster Herman E. Hombergerr pointed out and much of this mail is doomed for the dead-letter office because it carries no return address. Airmail rates overseas, the postmaster emphasized is six cents for a half-ounce whereas many senders try to dispatch letters weighing over that amount for the same postage.

A young woman movie patron is firmly resolved never to lay her purse on an empty theater seat beside her while watching her favorite screen players from now on. It cost Miss Marion Rogers, 142 West Second street, just $6 to do that the other night at the Ohio theater where her purse vanished while she was absorbed in the action on the screen. The pocketbook was later found in a theater rest room but the contents had disappeared, according to police reports.

Included in the calls to Boy Scout headquarters from persons who have safety razors to contribute to the current joint drive by the Scouts and the Navy Mothers' club are questions concerning the national Victory Book campaign and whether the shipwrecked sailors would also like books. Although Scouts have assisted in most of the victory campaigns, the book drive lasting until March 5 will be in the hands of the Richland county chapter of the Red Cross, the local U. S. O. and the public library. Miss Lois MacKellar, librarian, said that a box is being placed in the library where people may place their books, preferably fiction or best sellers dating from 1930.

TRUMAN GROUP ASKS UNIFIED GOAL CONTROL

Raps Limitation on Output of Farm Machinery as Blow To Production.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—The Truman committee today charged the WPB's office of civilian supply with gambling "dangerously and unwisely with our nation's food supply," and said that the OCS would be to blame if American agriculture fails to meet 1943 and 1944 production goals.

At the same time, the committee, in a report submitted to the senate, recommended establishment of a single control over food goals to be set and the methods of achieving them.

The committee declared that the civilian supply office disregarded recommendations of the agriculture department and the WPB farm machine and equipment branch for higher quotas of farm machinery for 1943 which, it said, intensified the agricultural problem.

The office of civilian supply, the report stated, "made no independent comprehensive survey in farm areas . . . but purported to use findings from surveys furnished to it by the agriculture department.

"It's results, however, were apparently not based on the department's findings, but on a formula which was developed for it by a professor of agricultural engineering.

"The effect of the farm labor shortage has been intensified by the drastic limitation on production of farm machinery in 1943. Responsibility for this limitation rests squarely on the office of civilian supply . . . this office erroneously regarded farm machinery as semi-essential."

Other recommendations made by the committee included that food administrator Wickard's determination of non-food materials required for the food production program be given maximum consideration in alloting materials.

Elimination of the plan of concentration of farm machinery production.

Development of a new and more adequate program for farm machinery production for the year beginning July 1, 1943 and its issuance as soon as requirements are ascertained.

Old Age Pension Applications at Eight-Year Low

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — Ohio's backlog of applications for old age assistance has reached the lowest point in the eight-year history of the pension system, Karl R. Babb, chief of the division of aid for the aged, reported today.

Increased wartime employment of older people and their relatives slashed new applications from 1,780 last January to 835 in December, while the total of all pending applications dropped from a high of 21,053 Jan. 31, 1939, to 3,867 Dec. 31, 1942.

New applications in 1942 totaled 15,968, a drop of 8,156 from the previous year. Re-instatement requests numbered 805, a decline of 404 from 1941.

From the backlog and new applications the division cleared 19,012 cases last year, approving 13,222 and ruling out 3,588 for ineligibility and 2,202 for other reasons, chiefly because of withdrawal of applications.

Babb said many of the applications still pending were being held up for temporary lack of verification of eligibility. He expects to clear a large number of these before Feb. 1.

Remember back in the good old days when basketball coaches believed they had the game down to something resembling a science, and when they had very definite ideas on how to shoot that inflated punkin?

Hold the ball with both hands, bring it up between your eyes and the basket, arch it high in the air, and keep your eyes on the hoop. That was the rule.

There were minor differences of opinion on whether the ball should rest in the palms of the hands, or be controlled by the tips of the fingers. And there was some dispute as to whether a lot of English, or medium English should be applied to the globule, or whether it should be floated up to the iron ring as a dead ball, giving it more chance to bounce in and less to English out. There were those who claimed a lot of English kept the ball on its course and made for accuracy.

* * *

But one and all agreed that the ball should be fired with both hands and then only when the player had a clear shot at the hoop.

If the coaches of those days could have seen a modern game of basketball with all its one-hand fliping of the ball in the general direction of the rings, and could have sat in on some of the 75-56 tilts that have become commonplace in the modern college game, you could have carted them away in trainloads to the daffy house. They'd have been astonished out of their wits.

* * *

But that was before the pivot shot introduced the one-hand flip, and before rules speeded up the game until a guy hardly has time to get set for a two-handed shot, and before the coaches agreed that basketball is the luckiest game played by two teams of athletes.

I asked Al Fendrick, veteran Madison coach, if he remembered a kid who played for him around 1929 to '31 named Raymond Snyder, from Mansfield route 5.

"I certainly do," exclaimed Al. "And I've often wished I'd listened to what he told me then.

"He was always practicing one-hand shots, and he could make 'em too. But I'd tell him if he ever used that shot in a game, out he'd come. He had to shoot with two hands if he played for me."

* * *

"You'll see the day," Al went on, "when everybody will be shooting with one hand." Snyder told Fendrick. "The game is going to come to it."

That's silly," Fendrick protested. "And as long as you play for a Madison team it's

So Snyder used both hands and he left Fendrick [illegible]

Now Fendrick wonders how many points Ray Snyder would have scored if he had permitted him to use the one-hand shot in which he was an expert.

Tygers Travel to Norwalk, Meet Youngstown Chaney Saturday

Busy Week-End Looms For Mansfield Quint.

MANSFIELD high hoopsters have a busy week-end ahead of them, traveling to Norwalk tomorrow night, and meeting Youngstown Chaney here Saturday night.

* * *

The Norwalk trip sends the Tygers against their fourth district tournament team this season, and takes the place on the schedule of the game cancelled by Sandusky.

* * *

Thus far the Tygers, in games with district tourney teams, have been edged by Elyria 22-23 and won from Willard 33-23, and Ashland 36-25.

Norwalk was defeated by Ashland, and also by Bowling Green in a game in which Norwalk led by eight points at the half. The Bee Gees won 36-34, and it was not until after the game that the Norwalk coach learned two of his players were ill.

* * *

Ewell, forward, scored nearly 20 points in the Bowling Green game, and has been one of Norwalk's leading scorers throughout a successful season. Ziemke, a tall center, also has contributed his share of points. Wagner, forward, Stewart and Chandler, guards, complete the starting lineup.

* * *

Coach Hoffman indicated today he probably will take his entire squad on the short Norwalk trip.

Youngstown Chaney will come here on vengeance bent Saturday night. Mansfield defeated Chaney at Youngstown last year, but the Tygers were warned then that they could expect tougher opposition this season.

The Chaney coach used a team composed almost entirely of under-classmen a year ago, a team that is back now as an experienced unit.

Chaney opened its season with a 38-23 victory over Newton Falls and followed up with a 39-33 win over Salem. Struthers gained a 45-44 edge over the Youngstown team, who came back with a 41-30 win over its alumni.

There followed three straight defeats at the hands of Campbell Memorial 25-29 New Philadelphia 31-35 and Youngstown Scienceville 41-16.

Cranev won its last game from Niles 57-47.

* * *

Starting lineup for Chaney probably will be: Charles Gray and Walter Houser, forwards, Mike Peterson, center, Steve Fabian and Dick Richie, guards. Officials will be E. B. Hamlin, of Ohio Wellevan and Cal Pfeiffer, Ohio U.

* * *

Mansfield sophomores will meet the Lexington high school team in a preliminary game Saturday night at 7 o'clock with the Chaney tilt booked at 8:15.

This was indicated yesterday when President William Harridge of the American league met with President Ford Frick of the National loop to complete wartime schedule adjustments.

* * *

Harridge disclosed that all clubs in his circuit had been asked to hold up player contracts until [illegible] director of economic stabilization rules whether baseball comes under the salary freezing order. Frick said National league clubs were withholding contracts for the same reason with the exception of the New York Giants who already [illegible] under a second ruling.

Junior Highs Play Friday

Simpson and Appleseed To Meet In Afternoon.

The Simpsons and the Appleseeds tangle tomorrow in the first game of their third annual basketball series, but the games this year will be played in the afternoon instead of night to ease the transportation problem for the junior high pupils.

* * *

With the kids already at school, they'll have to worry only about getting home in the usual manner after school, Athletic Director Harry Mehock explained today. Night games would mean two extra trips, and some of these kids live a long way from school.

* * *

Appleseed will still be after its first cage victory over Simpson, the Bulldogs having won all four games to date.

Their records for the present season show Simpson undefeated in four starts, while Appleseed has won 3 games and lost two.

* * *

Switching the games to afternoon play probably will reduce the adult section of the crowd, but should increase the student cheering sections, so that a packed gym is expected for tomorrow's game.

* * *

Lonero Leaves For Navy Duty

Ashland College Coach Receives Commission.

ASHLAND — Coach Frank R. Lonero of Ashland college will report for duty Feb 11 with the U. S. Navy in which he has received his commission as a lieutenant, junior grade. Lonero expects to be assigned to duty at the North Carolina pre-flight school as physical training instructor. His duties at Ashland college will be taken over by George Borges, physical education director of the college.

* * *

Lonero, who is above the present draft age, has sought a physical training post in the army and navy for the past year. Unsuccessful in these efforts, he applied for Red Cross overseas duty.

* * *

He received his navy commission and at the same time an appointment with the Red Cross for overseas duty. Because of the navy post, he will not accept the Red Cross position.

A graduate of West Tech high school Cleveland, Lonero is a graduate of Ashland college and has taken advanced work at Columbia university. He was named assistant coach at Ashland high school upon his graduation and later served as head coach before accepting the post of Ashland college coach in 1937.

Lucas Takes Shiloh In County Loop Tilt.

Three quick buckets in the closing minute of play clinched a 38-26 Richland county high school cage league victory for Lucas last night at Shiloh, as Barger sandwiched a long shot between two sucker shots by Kaylor.

* * *

The undefeated Lucas Cubs, temporarily leading the league with four straight wins, found the closing scoring splurge very soothing to the nerves after a battling Shiloh club had closed the gap at 26-30.

* * *

Barger, long-shot star of the Cubs, and Daup staged an individual scoring battle that found Barger winning out by the margin of a free point, 19-18, both cagers getting eight buckets.

Lucas took a 10-6 edge in the first quarter, and boosted it to 18-12 at the half, but Shiloh bounced back, and midway in the third period was trailing only 19-20. Then Kaylor and Barger spurted again, boosting the score to 27-19 at the close of the period.

Then Shiloh brought the count up to 23-27 and the two teams battled point for point until it was 26-30. Hammett and Barger each got a free point for Lucas, and then came the last minute's fast action by Kaylor and Barger, good for three buckets.

Other county teams swing into action tomorrow night, with undefeated Madison entering Union, Plymouth traveling to Bellville, and Butler to Lexington.

Yuncker Sports Take Lead In City League Championship Race

Athletic Supplies Upset Globe Steel; Sailor Bogantz Plays

By WALLY DAVIS

YUNCKER SPORTS jumped into first place in the City league basketball race last night, defeating Westinghouse, 45 to 30 at the Y. M. C. A.

It was the Sports' fifth win in seven games, and left them a game ahead of Globe Steel who lost to a surprising Athletic Supply, 44 to 34.

Paced by Duke Weber, Yunckers went out in front early in the contest and led all the way.

* * *

Weber tossed in 13 points in the first half but left the game early in the third quarter via the foul route.

* * *

The Sports led 10 to 5 at the end of the first quarter as the Westinghouse big guns couldn't find the bucket.

The second frame was fast and furious, with Yunckers chalking up 13 points to the Westies 12.

A third quarter rally, in which they scored 15 tallies, put the game on ice for the Sports, the period ending 38 to 25.

Weber's 13 markers gave him scoring honors for the Sports. Dick Roberts was close behind with a dozen counters. Mart Mayer had nine for Westinghouse.

The Athletic Supplies continued to upset the dope bucket, beating Globe Steel in the second game.

The Supplies held the Steelers scoreless for the first six minutes of the game, building up a 12-0 lead. This early spree made the difference as the teams battled on even terms during the remainder of the contest.

Flick Flockenzier whipped in eight buckets, most of them long shots, for a total of 16 points to lead all scorers. He got 10 of his tallies in the first half.

* * *

Bob Bogantz, home on leave from Great Lakes Naval Training Station, donned the cage livery again and scored ten points to lead the Steelers.

The Supplies led 14 to 4 as the first quarter ended, held a 23 to 16 halftime advantage, and were in front 37 to 25 as the last frame started.

Boxing Helps With Bayonet

Right Sidestep Means Life In Jungle War.

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK—(AP)—The difference between a boxing glove and a bayonet is apparent even to the most casual observer, but take it from Col. Harvey Miller, the marines who know their beak-busting have found it an especially healthy habit in places like Guadalcanal.

The boys are "learning like never before," says Colonel Miller, that a practical knowledge of boxing is important stuff, and the reason is as simple as sitting down. This is it:

* * *

"In the ring, the correct sidestep means only the difference between scoring a knock-down or being knocked down. In the jungle, the same side-step instinctively performed — without boxing gloves but plus bayonets —may mean the difference between life and death. That's a big difference."

"There's no loser's end in the jungle league," Colonel Miller adds. 'The motto is 'kill or be killed'."

Colonel Miller is more widely known as Heinie Miller, the permanent secretary and former president of the National Boxing association. A fight fan from 'way back, the colonel is the most prolific letter-writer in all the fight industry.

Calling for boxing to recognize its duty and concentrate on encouraging and teaching youngsters the sport as a means of self-defense in the "jungle hand-to-hand league," Miller contends that a state commission has no more license to give away a world championship "than the Arizona legislature has to give away the statue of liberty."

Capital Cops League Lead

Lutherans Bump Off Otterbein Quintet.

(By Associated Press)

Undefeated Capital university's cagers held a firm lead in the Ohio conference basketball title chase today.

The Lutherans knocked over neighboring Otterbein 44 to 36 last night for their fifth straight conference triumph. Their nearest competitor in the loi is Baldwin Wallace with three victories and no defeats.

* * *

* * *

Four other Ohio quintets saw action last night.

Miami won its fifth game in nine starts, a 57-33 decision over Dayton at Oxford. It was Dayton's third defeat in six contests.

Defiance thumped visiting Tri-State college of Angola, Ind., 56 to 40 as Charles Krouse, Defiance forward, tossed in 21 points to capture scoring honors for the evening.

Wilmington, playing at Richmond, Ind., fell victim to a last half rally as Earlham overcame a halftime deficit of 20 to 9 to win 39 to 35.

30 Men Perform Task of One, But It Saves Labor

TOLEDO — (AP) — Putting 30 men to work on a job that one man could do doesn't sound like modern production economy in these days of manpower shortages, but the experience of a motor company here was an exception that proved the rule.

It came about this way: Willys-Overland Motors received an order to produce gun parts for the army. Studies indicated that after machine operations, it would take about 30 hours of an expert toolmaker's time to do the hand finish filing job required on each gun.

Because of the difficulties of obtaining expert tool-makers and the fact that five years are required to train one, Willys engineers broke the operation down and trained thirty men to do a small part of the total filing in an hour.

Since it was always the same part he was trained to file, each of the workers became very proficient on the operation in 30 days, and the problem was licked.

PONY EXPRESS MAY COME BACK

GALLUP, N. M.—(INS)—The old time pony express may come back into use to bring mail to some of the Indians in western New Mexico, particularly the Zuni tribe at Zuni, 45 miles south of Gallup.

Farmers and ranchers as well as the Zunis, have complained to state OPA headquarters that Bill Shields, who operates a three-times-a-week mail route from Ramah to El Morrow, Alarque and Fence Lake, has discontinued his route because he can't get tires for his truck.

Mail for all the towns and stops on the route is accumulating at the Gallup and Ramah postoffices.

NEVER LONELY

SACRAMENTO, Cal.—(AP)—The John Kurtyaks have posted a cash reward for arrest of a mysterious heckler. The pest, believed to be a woman, has sent a succession of doctors, taxicabs, ambulances, hearses and clergymen to the Kurtyak home. There also have been mysterious telephone calls, in which a woman's voice says, "I'm the one you're looking for."

BUY WAR BONDS

SEND THIS BUGGY TO MOROCCO!

Here's how to do it. Say it will sell for $12, to be invested in war stamps. Now $12 will buy 12 entrenching shovels for 12 of our boys in Africa. Now that's important, Mister!

Yes, every discarded treasure in your attic should go to war! The quickest way to get it there is to advertise it in THE NEWS-JOURNAL.

SOCIETY BELLE IN WAR PLANT

WASHINGTON—(AP)—That war industries are attracting all classes of women to war work is evident in the society page of a New Orleans newspaper.

The Office of War Information reports the page featured the wedding of a New Orleans socialite who interrupted her work as riveter to marry an army sergeant.

LONDON RAID CELLARS LOCKED

Populace Unable to Get Into Shelters; Misuse Charged.

LONDON —(AP)— A number of Londoners were unable to get into air raid shelters at the height of yesterday's daylight air raid because the shelters were kept locked to prevent "scandalous misuse," it was revealed in commons today.

Sir William Henry Davison asked Herbert Morrison, minister of home security, whether he was aware that "in yesterday's raids a considerable number of people who ran to the shelters for safety were unable to get shelter by reason of the fact they were locked."

Said Morrison: "The shelters were kept locked owing to scandalous misuse and damage by citizens."

SENT TO PEN

Bonecutter Gets Three to Twenty Years On Rape, Robbery Count.

Found guilty on a grand jury indictment of rape and robbery, Douglas Bonecutter, 24, was sentenced to serve three to 20 years in the Ohio penitentiary, by Judge C. H. Huston in common pleas court yesterday. The jury deliberated only 40 minutes to reach the verdict.

After sentencing Bonecutter, Judge Huston severely reprimanded the principal witness for the state, on whose complaint the charges were based, for her alleged improper conduct.

Lauds Plymouth Man for Loaning War Machinery

The co-operation of a Plymouth garage man in loaning two pieces of equipment necessary to speed production of war materials at a Mansfield industry was cited today by Glenn L. Bierly, president and treasurer of the Mansfield Brass Foundry, Inc., as "an example of the kind of patriotism that will help win the war."

Needing a lathe in a hurry the foundry appealed to the War Production Board, Bierly said, and learned that Ray Dininger had such an instrument in his Plymouth garage. Asked for the loan of the lathe, Dininger not only complied, Bierly explained, but he helped to find a trucker to move the equipment.

In addition to loaning the lathe for the duration Dininger also offered the use of an electric welder to the foundry, a piece of equipment that the foundry urgently needed, Bierly said, but did not anticipate finding so readily.

The loaned equipment is now in operation and Dininger has been informed that proper care will be taken of all tools and "that after this war has been brought to a victorious conclusion all items will be returned in an equally satisfactory condition or fair and reasonable reimbursement will be made.

$25,000 SEEN INADEQUATE TO OPERATE PARKS

Although visited by the greatest crowds in their history, 1942 operating costs of Mansfield's eight municipal parks were slightly below council's $23,500 appropriation but addition of John Todd park to the city chain makes the 1943 allocation of $25,000 seem somewhat inadequate, in the opinion of park commission members.

Costs were studied when the commission heard reports on 1942 operations and discussed plans for this year's recreational centers. The 1942 expenses totaled $22,090.97 and the slight surplus, added to 1941 savings, makes a balance of $2,991.30 to supplement the council appropriation.

Labor and caretaker costs amounted to $13,999.98 last year, with miscellaneous expense of $2,995.41, superintendent's salary of $2,100, fuel and light, $1,995.70 and a Liberty park shelter house costing $998.88.

Total costs at the various parks in 1942 were: Central, $2,721.86; North lake, $2,977.27; Maple, Middle and South parks, $3,438.95; Johns park $1,931.30 and Prospect, $1,885.66 for an overall expense of $15,894.10 distributed for labor and maintenance.

In Liberty pool operation expenses were $1,745.80 and receipts were $1,930.83, showing a profit of $184.99 from paid attendance. In the preceding year there was a profit of $182.02. Last year 14,397 paid for bathing privileges with 10,000 free admissions, as compared to 13,977 paid and 8,500 free admissions the preceding year.

Improvements last year are listed as follows:

Central park: painting bandstand and fountain, seeding and planting evergreens.

Liberty park: painting, enclosing lower floor of shelter house with wall and doors, new kitchen and walks.

Johns park: painting, trimming shrubs and trees, ball park resurfacing.

Middle park: eight new furnaces and one drinking fountain, stone bridge repair, trimming, grading and seeding.

South park: stone bridge rebuilding, trimming, grading, seeding.

Maple lake: swings installed, horse shoe court construction, lights, three new furnaces and 326 feet of 36-inch storm sewer.

Prospect park: two new drinking fountains, ball park resurfacing, tennis court resurfacing and new sidewalk.

Park laborers graded and seeded five new street intersection plots and cut 20 cords of firewood for furnaces.

In midsummer council voted to accept as a gift a deed to John Todd park in the southeastern area of the city and 1943 plans call for roadway construction and other improvement of the 21-acre tract.

Activities of the park associations increased last year with 100 North lake members raising $1,256.06 and expending $402.23 for park improvements. The Maple-Middle-South park group of 224 members reported receipts and balances of $536 and expenses of $238.01 while 185 Liberty park members had $405.92 on hand and spent $206.88. The 200 Johns park members handled $357.63 and expenditures of $97.73 while Prospect park members numbering 194 reported $651.39 on hand and $237 spent. The John Todd park association of 169 members handled $384 and spent $62.25.

Associations raised money by dues, entertainments, rental of association-owned equipment, picture shows and concessions. Expenses noted were for actual park improvements. Outstanding association-sponsored events were the July Fourth celebration, melon festival, boating, skating, tennis, baseball, swimming and horse-shoe pitching events.

With the park attendance in 1942 totaling 345,000, not including the John Todd park activities, park commission members predict that restricted travel will result in 400,000 or more attending park activities this year.

Gritiron Members Honor Major Moorhead

Members of the Gritiron club, who by their own admission, settle all the world's problems each day when they gather for luncheon in the Mansfield-Leland hotel (and probably make marks on the tablecloth to explain their solutions) paid tribute to a departing member at a dinner party in the hotel last evening. The departing member, and one of the better problem-solvers, is Major Ralph E. Moorhead, who reports for active duty tomorrow in Atlanta, Ga., in the motor transport corps. Members presented Major Moorhead with gold oak leaves, shoulder insignia of his rank, and in the picture above Attorney George Blecker presents Major Moorhead with a leather-cased clock. Other members of the club are shown in the background, most of them well enough known not to need identification.

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

For older boys and girls who like an adventure story a new book on the children's shelves at the public library is "Trailer Trio," but for the young readers having a scientific turn of mind another recent book will give the answer to questions and explanations of the mysteries concerning science.

TRAILER TRIO, by Emma Atkins Jacobs. The Dunsmuir's, Anne, Rod, and Maleta, set out with an old car and a home-made trailer to find a cabin in Idaho where they might make their home. Scarcity of money forces Rod to find work along the way and the early months in their new home are difficult. Altogether this makes a good adventure tale of present day pioneering.

SIMPLE SCIENCE, by Huxley and Andrade. Designed to explain some of the fundamental laws of science, this book discusses many principles of physics, chemistry, physiology and botany. The language is such that teen-age readers can understand the book, yet many adults will find it helpful.

WILMINGTON, Del. — (AP) — Cockroaches can swallow the drug phenothiazine without harm, but if it touches the outside of their bodies it kills the pests, research chemists say. The phenothiazine passes through the shells of the roaches, and is apparently converted into another compound which really does the killing.

JOB PAYMENTS DOUBLE IN '42

paid state benefits like those in Mansfield showed in increase over 1941 Ohio workers received $2 236 950 more than in the previous year In 1942 payments were $14 408 108 for 1 206 137 weeks of unemployment according to H H Miller, district examiner for the state bureau with headquarters in Mansfield

The apparent contradictions in the report showing more money for fewer weeks of unemployment were explained Miller said by the liberalization of amendments to the law which became effective in October 1941

Average weekly payments for total employment in Ohio in 1942 rose to a record high of $12 60 The average in 1941 was $10 26 Average weekly payments for partial unemployment of $6 98 during 1942 also topped all previous records This figure was 9 per cent higher than 1941 when the average was $5

DOUBTS POWER TO CHANGE TIME

declared the establishments of war time was essential to the national war effort added

'Can the legislature of Ohio properly or even patriotically enact a measure that is absolutely contrary to the national defense of the common country'

'An extreme example might be this Could the Ohio legislature enact a law to fix the minimum draft age at 25 years in Ohio' Obviously it could not and would not"

The lieutenant governor described war time as another instance where our citizenship must endure sacrifice and inconvenience to aid in the prosecution of the war

All 48 states he called upon in the present emergency with our sons fighting throughout the world to act as a single unit he continued This war tests whether 48 self governing states will yield to our congress the right which belongs to it to declare the policy of the entire nation

Future generations will say that Ohio gave its fullest and most complete cooperation to its country in the prosecution of this war

The resolution asking Governor Bricker's recommendation on the time question was submitted by Senator Maurice W Lipscher (D Mahoning) It remarked that the governor had made recommendations dealing with other laws such as female and child labor and the sales tax In view of this Lipscher said off the floor why should the governor straddle the time issue"

Proponents of a time-change especially farm and school interests petitioned the senate judiciary committee to recommend for passage legislation to eliminate the so-called fast time'

W K Howell of the Ohio Farm Bureau said that farmers were undergoing so many hardships because of fast time that he doubted their disadvantages were offset by savings of electric energy in the industrial field

Most of the witnesses questioned the value of war time to the power industry and war production which the war production board says are the principal beneficiaries

Among the 48 bills introduced yesterday were proposals to distribute state poor relief revenues according to the number of relief cases in each county The funds now are allocated in proportion to a county's average real public utility and tangible property

Other measures would fix a fee of $1 per arrest the money to go to the police pension fund and provide a maximum penalty of a $100 fine and three months in jail for turning in a false fire alarm

The senate adjourned until Monday but the house scheduled another session today

Board of Review Turns Down Benefits for Idle Miners

COLUMBUS (AP) A decision by the board of review of the state bureau of unemployment compensation today denied 7 000 Ohio coal miners $120 000 in jobless benefits for the 28 days they were idle during 1941 contract negotiations

The board in a two-to-one decision held the miners could not receive benefits because they refused offers of work for which they were reasonably fitted' following the expiration of an agreement with operators March 31.

For her outstanding work as head of the women's committee Mrs Louis J Ott was honored and presented awards of bonds and scrolls to her group leaders During November the women's committee conducted a campaign to sell enough bonds to buy a bombing plane But after they had reached that goal they sold enough more bonds to buy a pursuit ship and still had $10 000 in bond sales above that amount

Mrs Ott presented awards to Mrs Howard Miller of the Cottage Garden club Mrs William M Dellart of the women's auxiliary of the federation of postoffice clerks Mrs William Bowers of the Mansfield Garden club and Mrs Mildred Burdette of the Women of the Moose

Bredlow who conducted the meeting made the awards to regional winners chosen as having done outstanding jobs of bond-selling in their areas

Speaking briefly before presenting the awards, Bredlow emphasized that dollars invested in war bonds would not only help to win the war but also the peace to follow—that money invested in bonds would go far to give the men of the nation's armed forces a chance to find a job and make their own way when they come home

Thats the only reward he men who are willing to sacrifice their lives are asking of us at home a chance to resume a normal life when they come back Bredlow said

Bredlow said that in 1942 Ohioans had bought war bonds in the sum of $501 871 896 He introduced the following as regional war bond champions and presented each with a $25 war bond and a silver medal the gifts of the Standard Oil company which also presented the flag to Eliot

The regional winners were Mrs Barney Houston Cincinnati Howard V Amos Sidney Miss Helen V Shuey Toledo Mrs Ena M Hale Wilmington Mrs Leon Wolford Lancaster Mrs Harry L Horne Ashland Mrs Eunice Sherrits Coshocton Mrs Earl E Powell Steubenville and Mrs B F Glass Youngstown

Of that group Mrs Powell and Amos were not present J B Cook Sidney accepted the award for Amos

At the start of the program Eliot introduced Mayor W J Locke who spoke briefly congratulating war bond workers on their record Numerous war bond workers were introduced received a direct hit and was split nearly in two

The roof had collapsed and fire was raging

The fire brigade and police rescue parties were arriving at that moment and had frantically started efforts to rescue children and teachers trapped under piles of debris

I first met my other daughter Lillian and then found Shirley safe enabling me to plunge into the debris to help the rescue parties

We were told that almost 200 children were having lunch inside the school while others were in the schoolyard when the building was hit

I helped to carry out nearly thirty children of whom many were dead and others badly injured crying and whimpering pitifully We carried them to ambulances and then went back and forth finding one child after another sometimes dead, sometimes grievously injured but living

Meanwhile the police had a difficult task keeping frantic mothers from the ruined building As the children were brought out some of the mothers recognized their kids and snatched them from our arms to carry them home still unconscious

There were pitiful scenes as some mothers recognized children who were already dead

We were told numerous children and some of the staff are still unaccounted for

I am snatching a cup of tea as I phone this to London and then I'm going back to help the rescue squads who are still working like Trojans despite the danger of falling ruins

We have had plenty of bombings in this area in the past but nothing so pitifully tragic as this The whole neighborhood has turned out to do what it can to comfort the mothers and care for the children

It announced that it would soon raise its advertising rates about 10 per cent and require its advertisers to reduce their space by an amount "which we hope will level out to at least 10 per cent and preferably to 15 per cent" Again the purpose was to save newsprint

Though limited by government order during the first quarter of this year to the amount of newsprint it consumed in the first quarter of 1941 the News said its circulation had so increased it had thus far exceeded its quota

To reduce circulation the tabloid newspaper urged its readers in small advertisements scattered through today's issue and in an editorial Don't buy a News Borrow one Effective next Sunday Canadian purchasers of the Sunday News will have to pay 10 cents for a copy instead of five cents

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, THURSDAY, JANUARY 21, 1943.

Another question that arises is how you can "pay as you go" when there's no place that you can go.

That one-time favorite, "Yes, we have no bananas today," can now be revised to include a lot of even more essential commodities.

It has all become so confusing to some readers that it may be advisable to explain that there are two Flynns—and that there's no likelihood of sentencing Errol to Australia.

Nazi Raiders Demolish School

SHEER BRUTALITY of the Nazi war machine has seldom been brought to public notice in a more ghastly way than by yesterday's deliberate bombing of an English schoolhouse during recess time.

Many of the children were killed and scores of others maimed—as a reprisal move by Hitler after recent RAF bombings of military objectives in and around Berlin.

This is the kind of warfare in which Nazi Germany took the initiative, followed by Italy and Japan, and much as it may be deplored by the more humanitarian peoples of the world, defense must be made against it and enemy nations must also be made to feel the impact of Allied air power to far greater extent than has thus far been resorted to.

While news does not travel freely in Germany it cannot be doubted that word of the bombing of Berlin has been circulated through the country by now, at least to the extent of disturbing public confidence and causing the German people to realize that such things can happen to them.

Thus far Rome has been spared from bombardment but there is no assurance that this policy will continue—in fact yesterday's ruthless slaughter of English school children may hasten decision to intensify British air attacks on both of the European Axis capitals.

The people of Italy were recently warned by British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden that "whenever military necessity dictates, Rome will be bombed as heavily as Berlin has been bombed."

Loss of lives cannot be avoided in connection with bombing raids—even when military objectives are sought—but the intentional destruction of what was plainly a school house crowded with young children is a type of warfare which Americans place in the category of premeditated murder.

Rationing Dates To Remember

TODAY is the last day for use of the No. 3 sheet of coupons in the gasoline rationing A books, and tomorrow the No. 4 coupons will be accepted.

But that isn't the only thing to be remembered. January 30 is the final day you can use the No. 10 coupon in buying three pounds of sugar, and the following Saturday will wind up the effectiveness of the No. 28 coupon, which you must surrender when buying a pound of coffee.

But these are minor matters, as compared with the things you'll have to learn in another few weeks, when the No. 2 rationing book and its "point system" comes along and purchases of a number of other commodities are restricted.

Rationing has been shown to be necessary in order to prevent hoarding and to secure a fair distribution of scarce commodities. Present inclination of some persons to overbuy on available canned goods, in advance of intended rationing, is following the same pattern as was noted in the earlier rush for sugar and coffee. It is announced, however, that all commercial canned goods in homes when rationing starts, must be declared and that this will be deducted from coupon allowances.

During the course of an address in Mansfield this week, Birkett L. Williams, of Cleveland, regional director of the Office of Price Administration, explained reasons for rationing and asked for the co-operation of all patriotic Americans. Civilian conformance to rationing regulations really seems a small sacrifice when compared with actual hardships being undergone by men on the fighting fronts.

Those Cheery Seed Catalogs

SUDDENLY it doesn't matter much that everything is cold and windy and frozen up. The 1943 seed catalogs are out! They pour over the country from east to west, north to south—and suddenly everything is different.

In countless rural communities and city homes people receive these catalogs and they are always welcomed in midwinter because they turn thoughts to spring, with its upburst of new life. The shut-ins can go out, mentally, and dig in the good soil and plant things regardless of climate or weather. "The mind is its own place" and in purely mental gardening the crops never fail.

It isn't all idealism and imagination, either. This year particularly is going to be a year when gardens are needed far more than usual—needed to provide the fresh foodstuffs that will be harder to get in the markets, and also to turn troubled minds to hopeful, growing things.

Nature Rebels Against 'Normality'

THIS "ever normal granary" plan is a grand ideal for farmers, and worth persevering for, even though it will be hard to accomplish. Farm business and farm people have always suffered much from the irregularity of crops. It has been feast and famine. Farming has been too much of a gamble, and what it needs more than anything else is more certainty of crops and markets. But "normality" is hard to accomplish because nature—both external and human—is hard to control.

Employment is in much the same situation. Men in the army, as President Roosevelt says, will be wanting "permanent employment" when they get back from the war, instead of the forced idleness that has occurred at such times. And the question arises, how is it going to be done?

Business, too, naturally wants normality in its operations, and suffers from irregular crop production or irregular industrial production. All these problems are interwoven. And whoever can combine them in a harmonious and continuous plan will accomplish much for the modern economic system. Indeed, if these economic problems could be solved there might not be any more great wars.

It is being suggested that such an experienced paperhanger as Hitler should be among the first to see the handwriting on the wall.

Another need of the war is to devise a method of beating can openers into bread knives.

Nye Trains Sights on 1943 Budget

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—As senior Republican member of the senate's appropriations committee, Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota, is in direct personal charge of the inquiry into President Roosevelt's desired action on a financial allowance for the coming year.

Anti-New Deal Democrats on the committee are as critical as the Republicans, but are slightly bashful in expressing themselves adversely to White Houses wishes. Nye has no such hesitancy and really is that faction's chief spokesman as well as his own party's. Besides overhauling every future item in the recent presidential budget message to congress, Nye's aim is to dig into past spendings.

So far as concerns the war allowance there'll be no argument relative to the total.

In order to clear their record, former isolationists are rather more inclined than the others to be liberal. Executive requests for civilian appropriations are due, however, for the thoroughest inspection. It will be all the more so in that its expression of itself is counted on to be pretty decisive as to next election

On a Warm Spot.

The anti-New Deal Democrats are on a hot spot.

They want to put the New Deal on the Fritz and yet they hate to indorse a policy that may mean a G. O. P. victory in 1944.

Which do they fear most?

Four more years of New Dealism or a Republican administration as a substitute for it?

They don't know.

Senator Nye's fix couldn't be improved on.

The fact is that he's better off than Carter Glass, the senatorial appropriation committee's Democratic chairman, or Kenneth McKellar, the Virginian's substitute during the latter's prolonged illness.

It's true that neither Carter nor Kenneth rates as a New Dealer. Nevertheless they're democratically responsible.

Nye's on the right side from his own political standpoint.

Besides he's emphatically from a farm state which considers New Dealerism as objectionable as pro-industrial labor at agriculture's expense.

Gerald verges on being a Republican presidential possibility if he makes the most of his opportunity as he shows signs of doing. Gerald's weakness is that he and his then wife were divorced a few years ago down east here. That isn't a serious count against a man in public life or otherwise but it signified in the Dakotas.

Nye's Version.

Nye's story is that the administration aims to create an enormous fund nominally for war purposes and then to hang onto a big percentage of it to finance its socio-economic program in succeeding peace days.

The house of representatives instead of the senate has the first crack at financial legislation.

Gerald consequently hasn't got in his deadliest work yet.

It's coming, though.

Just now he's organizing a lot of sub committees to go into the subject intensively.

As a matter of fact he isn't in a minority — reckoning Republicans and anti-New Deal Democrats collectively are with him solidly.

Health and Diet

Vitamins for Soul

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

I FEEL inclined to echo the advice of my friend, Dr. Thurman B. Rice, of the Indiana state board of health, who, in these times recommends vitamins for the soul.

A vitamin is a substance which acts in some way to improve your nutrition and morale and make your food more readily absorbed and more readily used in the body economy. When they are insufficient in the diet the individual goes on living, but he sags

Spiritual Nourishment.

What is true about the physical body is true about the spiritual body. We have all sorts of things, humble and solid and wholesome which nourish our mental and spiritual processes: we read newspapers, we have discussions with our friends, we read business bulletins, we listen to commercial continuities on the radio, hear all sorts of gossip about the war.

All these things are necessary on a lower plane, but a great many of us need a "lift" to raise our thinking and our feeling to a higher level. That is what Dr. Rice means by "vitamins for the soul."

Nowadays the physical health is likely to be affected by the excitement and stress of the times. Whether the news is good or bad, acceptable or not acceptable it is certainly not a pleasant world to live in from the standpoint of news. So he suggests that reading and conversation be enlarged to continue interest in the great cultural and spiritual achievements of the race.

Dr. Rice found a list someone suggested of the 25 greatest books ever written on which he noticed that Milton's "Paradise Lost" stood tenth in the list. He wondered why. In high school he had read it, but in those days it had not made much impression on him, so he decided to take it up again.

At first it was rather hard going. Then he found that it was written for adults. Then he learned to read it aloud. That was much better. His family thought he was losing his mind but, according to him, they had thought that before, and he had noticed that they treated him better when they were worried about him. Anyway, he kept on reading it aloud.

It is adult food. It is food for grown men and women and certainly it is time we were growing up and giving up the nursing bottle of babyhood the pureed vegetable stage of mental nutrition.

I thoroughly agree with his attitude and among other mental lifts that people need nowadays is more poetry—the great English poets, not only Milton, but Keats and Shelley and Wordsworth and Browning and Tennyson.

Written 2,200 Years Ago.

How many of you have read the "Meno" and "Parmenides" of Plato lately, or have ever read them? They were written about 2,200 years ago and are still being reprinted so there must be something in them that is good for the human spirit.

These vitamins are not always quite as easy to take as the capsule ones that you get at the drug store for your physical nutrition. You have to keep awake and think and really work on them, but I guarantee that in the long run they will do you good.

Timely Editorial

Failure In Self-Discipline.

Each fresh example of bad discipline in the nation at war brings its separate demands for high-handedness. The anthracite strike is following the customary pattern.

As far as the war is concerned and it is the primary thing concerned in all wartime strikes—there is no conceivable justification for a work stoppage, least of all in the middle of a fuel shortage. The miners have weakened their case, whatever it may be.

Apparently, their strike was not against operators, because the miners were working under a contract that does not expire until spring. It is unthinkable that it was against the government, even though an agency of the government was defied. The circumstantial evidence suggests strongly that the source of the trouble was confusion within the miners' organization and that the confusion led to sufficient friction to bring about a work stoppage.

In other words there simply was a failure of the self-discipline that sustains free government.—Canton Repository.

Everyday Poem

—By GEORGE ELLISTON

Out of Nothing.

Out of nothing, happiness
Can be made, a day
Sunny and breeze-swept, a song
Organ-grinders play.

Out of nothing, sight or sound
That exhilarates;
Out of walking in the snow,
Joke a friend relates.

Out of nothing, but the heart
To know it must be
Open to the dream of it,
Eyes alert to see.

Interpreting the War News

Hitler Fears Invasion From East, African Campaign Helps Russians

—By LOUIS F. KEEMLE

THE INTER-RELATION between the great Russian offensive and Allied operations in North Africa become increasingly apparent as the Russians continue rolling the Germans back toward their European stronghold.

It is significant that there has been no mention of a "second front" by any Russian source for nearly two months now. The African campaign has done two things to help Russia.

It caused a weakening of the German air force on the eastern front and prevented the dispatch of any considerable number of reserves to bolster the Axis armies there. Germany had to use its thinning reserves to reinforce the armies in Africa, and especially to prepare for the defense of southern Europe against the invasion which is scheduled when the Allies have cleaned up Africa.

In reverse, the Russian drive has helped and will further help the Allied campaign in Africa. It is almost a guaranty of Allied success there.

* * *

THE GERMANS now are speaking guardedly of a Russian "break through" and assuring the people that the oncoming Russians will not get as far as the reich.

That means the Germans actually fear an invasion from the east. It means that what reserves they have cannot be spared for Africa, nor to the extent they would like for southern Europe.

Allied invasion of Europe from Africa is on the future books; the second front is still in its preliminary stages. The peril from Russia is imminent. The Germans realize that the enemy is coming, and unless stopped, may reach the eastern gates of the reich.

The situation has altered radically since the start of the Russian offensive. Until then, Hitler thought he had Russia safely in check. As recently as Nov. 8, he proclaimed the capture of Stalingrad, and he apparently really believed he had it.

On that date, explaining the costly military blunder of storming the Volga city, he declared:

"Please do not believe that I wanted it because it was called Stalin. I wanted it because of its importance as a junction. We stopped the traffic of 30,000,000 tons of fuel and 9,000,000 tons of gasoline. That is why we took Stalingrad. That is why we have got it now except for some very small parts."

* * *

HITLER then hoped, according to a speech at about the same time by Josef Stalin, to cut off Moscow from the south. His plan, Stalin said, was to draw Russia's main strength to the south and weaken Moscow so that it could be captured and Russia knocked out of the war.

That plan has gone with the winter wind of Russia. So, probably, are other plans Hitler might have had in mind. The possibility of an attempt to reach the Middle East through Turkey has become too remote for further consideration. That may be why Iraq jumped on the Allied bandwagon by declaring war on the Axis.

The prospect of a German invasion of Spain to reach Gibraltar seems equally remote. The fact is that Hitler's military resources are strained to forestall an invasion from the east, the Mediterranean or western Europe, not to mention trying to beat off the Allied air offensive against Germany and occupied Europe.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—The capital in Wartime:

The army's drive to end the conceit and braggadocio that often result in blabbing information of value to the enemy brought out this story of a boast that backfired.

It happened on an airliner bound from Pittsburgh to Washington. He was just a garrulous private and he wore the starred bar that showed he had been in action.

In a voice that carried over a large section of the cabin, he announced that he had been in Guadalcanal, had killed 27 Japs single-handed. He told about his trip home on a transport. He announced proudly he was going to preflight training school to become a combat pilot. He just couldn't wait to get in the air. Boy, what he would do.

About that time the airliner hit the mountains and began to bounce around like corn on a popper. In five minutes the loud lad was silent and sea-green. At the Washington airport, he climbed unsteadily from the plane—but he squared himself with the other passengers. He donned a sickly grin and said: "Gee, did I get what was coming to me."

* * *

THE strike of 21,000 miners in the anthracite fields of Pennsylvania in protest against an increase in union dues may seem to be for a strange cause to the average American, but this isn't the only warring nation with strike troubles that have nothing to do with hours or wages.

A government official recently returned from Australia tells of a strike that threatened to tie up most of the wartime coal production of our ally down under.

The miners just dropped everything and quit. The reason was that the government or some other powers had decided that for the duration, the nine-ounce beer glasses would be cut to seven and a half ounces.

The miners got their ounce-and-a-half of beer back and returned to work.

* * *

THE only wholesale protests against the Victory tax to reach the ears of treasury officials comes from an unexpected source: several church groups and denominations.

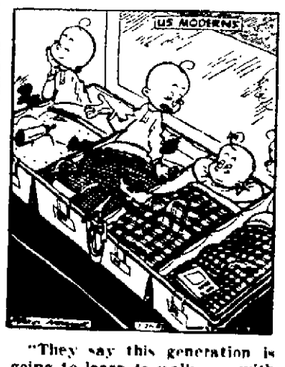
The protest isn't against the tax itself but against making churches the collection agencies for deductions from the pay of pastors and other employes.

Rev. Thomas Boorde, pastor of the Anacostia Baptist church here, took up the matter in a sermon recently, saying that "making the church a collecting agency undoubtedly violates the principle of the separation of church and state."

In The Lutheran, church paper, it was reported that Rev. R. G. Baucum, vice president of the Baptist General Convention of Texas, declared: "If (the collection clause of the bill) opens our churches to bureaucratic control. This gives the federal government the right to check our church finances."

Treasury oficials said they had received no official protests as yet on the matter. Off the record, one opinion was expressed that the matter would have to go back to congress for an amendment to the tax law before other means of collection could be resorted to.

LIFE'S LIKE THAT



"They say this generation is going to learn to walk . . . with the tire and gas rationing, and all."

Dave Boone Says:

WELL, President Roosevelt has ordered the coal miners back to work. It was just about as popular for them to strike as it would be for the oil truck drivers, plumbers and flannel underwear men.

* * *

Postmaster General Walker must still feel pretty uncomfortable over those silly, half-baked demagogic resolutions the Democratic national committee passed, branding as "treasonable plotters against the president" all American citizens who don't think Mr. Flynn quite the right man to be ambassador to Australia.

* * *

Nobody who knows Frank Walker believes he holds any such ideas. I'll bet he spent the entire afternoon wondering why they launched him into the chairmanship in any such sea of baloney.

* * *

Mr. Walker wouldn't even approve a letter carrier who had such distorted ideas of the rights of American citizens as were expressed in those resolutions.

* * *

Say, is there anything funnier than all those serious instructions on how to slice a loaf of bread at home? Imagine thinking we're so dumb we have to get detailed advice about using a sharp knife and sawing motion. It's just plain humiliating to any adult.

As Others See It

Spare-Time Suggestion.

If you want to know how little will cover how much, just capsize a box of salted nuts onto the floor. Clean the floor carefully first — you get a better effect and you still can sweep up the nuts and eat them.—Boston Globe.

Credit Where Due.

The GOP is blamed for favoring the elimination of one-third of the government employes as unnecessary. But that bright idea originated with a good, upstanding Democrat, Senator Byrd of Virginia.—Kansas City Times.

Grab Bag

One-Minute Test.

1. Can a senator of the United States serve on more than one committee at a time?

2. Must a member of the house of representatives be a resident of the district which he represents?

3. Who was the first treasurer of the United States?

Words Of Wisdom.

Time is the most undefinable yet paradoxical of things: the past is gone, the future has not come, and the present becomes the past even while we attempt to define it, and, like a flash of the lightning, at once exists and expires.—Colton.

Hints On Etiquette.

Don't try to "reform" your friends and acquaintances. There is just one person whom you can and should reform—and that is yourself. It is rude to interfere with another's life unless you are urged to help.

One-Minute Test Answers.

1. Yes, on several, and often does so.

2. Yes, the Constitution so provides.

3. Michael Hillegras was the first treasurer of the United Colonies; Alexander Hamilton was the first secretary of the treasury under the Constitution.

A Farmer's Diary

Readers Say--

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

OUR MAIL has been exceptionally rich for the past few weeks. To rid the slate of unanswered letters, and give all our readers a chance to share the fun, here are some excerpts that may have general interest:

Two ladies, one in Pennsylvania and one in Ohio, have taken a personal interest in the orphan boy I wrote about at Christmas. Both offer to give the lad a home, if that is possible. Upon inquiry, I find that the little fellow has gone to friends of his parents in Michigan. His mother is confined in a tuberculosis sanitarium, and may recover.

* * *

"BUY that farm," advises another contributor to the letters for the would-be farm buyer. "Because any person desiring to be a partner of the Almighty will never be let down . . . then let Mr. Byers keep us posted how you make out next summer."

* * *

"TO SMOKE MEAT in a barrel, all you do is hang the few pieces from sticks laid across the open barrel top, open bottom on the ground. Make a fire with sufficient draft to carry the smoke upward and cause the fire to smolder—and there you are. Cover the barrel, of course."

* * *

THIS from an old lady, who sits by her window writing, and watches a small girl along the street proudly airing her new Christmas doll—"The fashion in dolls has changed decidedly in half a century. I was never much for dolls myself, but still I think a little doll more appropriate and more easily handled by a little girl, than that creation of some grown-up, a replica of a real baby, nearly as large as the small recipient and rather horrible to me . . . but then I never was much for dolls, anyhow. Something alive suited me better."

* * *

TWO letters have come, mentioning my "Salute to a soldier," and telling of other soldiers and sailors whom they wish might be similarly honored. It is my policy to write of what I personally know and observe insofar as it seems typical of farmers' experience. The case I mentioned was typical, I believe. I meant it not only as a salute to one single soldier, but as an expression of feeling to every man who goes abroad to fight—who leaves his home and loved ones to wear the uniform of these United States.

KIN OF OUTLAW IN AIR FORCES

MIDLAND Tex. —(INS)— Shades of Billy the Kid!

William Dana Bonney, a distant but direct relative of the famous outlaw, is a second lieutenant in the army air corps. Instead of throwing bullets from a six-shooter, as did his relative, Lt. Bonney will be throwing bombs.

Bonney was a cadet at the Midland AAF Bombardier school, but was recently selected with a group of other cadets in his class to receive wings early in order that they might be enrolled in a special navigation course at Hondo. Before entering the army he was a bookkeeper in Houston.

TOUGH BUT NICE

"CAREER NIGHT" was observed by 118 members and guests of the Mansfield Business and Professional Women's club which met in the cafeteria of John Simpson Junior high school Wednesday.

Guests at the affair were several girls of the commercial and distributive education departments at Senior high school, who will be graduated in January and June. Each of the guests received a small American flag as a favor.

The address of welcome was extended by Miss Dorothy Landers, president of the club, with Miss Dorothy Norris responding for the commercial students, and Miss Betty Underwood, who represented the distributive education department.

The Club Collect was read by both members and guests, and copies autographed by the president, were distributed to the students.

During the business session reports were made by the secretary and treasurer, and the program chairman, Miss Fanny Ray, announced that the February meeting of the club would be an emblem breakfast at the Mansfield Leland hotel, Feb. 7, with Miss Margaret Hopper, as chairman, assisted by Miss Doris Mann, Miss Nina Pollock, and Mrs. Eleanor Smith. The hospitality committee will include Ada Stewart, chairman, assisted by Eileen Stout, Nancy Pottinger and Teresa Peiffer. New members will be initiated at this meeting.

A plea was made by the social service chairman for more sales tax stamps for the dental clinic, and Miss Minnie Laudon, chairman of the War Activities committee, made a plea for more blood donors and more workers at the surgical dressing headquarters of the American Red Cross.

Miss Laudon presided during the program, in the absence of the program chairman, Miss Marvel Cowell. The Business and Professional Women's glee club, under the direction of Miss Myrtle Booth, sang three numbers, Harburg-Arlen's "Over the Rainbow," "Celtic Lullaby," by Robertson, and "What's the Time, Blackbird," by Oliver. Mrs. Minnie Marks Cahall was the accompanist.

Two talks were given by Miss Mary Elizabeth Gruber, speaking on "Choosing a Job and Making It Successful," and Mrs. A. L. Linder, who told of "American Women In a World of War."

The remainder of the afternoon was devoted to sewing for the Richland county T. B. sanitorium.

When a luncheon was served, Mrs. George Gillespie, of San Mateo, Calif., a former resident of Mansfield, presided at the tea table, which was centered with an arrangement of yellow and white flowers.

NEWS IS DISCUSSED AT SOROSIS MEETING

Miss Dorothy Moser Presents Interesting Paper on "Understanding the News"; Mrs. Harold K. Mansfield Entertains.

AT THE MEETING last evening of the Beta chapter of Mansfield Sorosis, held in the home of Mrs. Harold K. Mansfield, 54 Sturges avenue, Miss Dorothy Moser gave an informative paper on "Understanding the News."

In Miss Moser's well-prepared paper, her explanation of understanding the news was briefly outlined in three important directions for organizing ourselves to learn what news is and how to understand it well. She gave the purpose and function of each press association that gathers our news and of newspapers that print this news.

Miss Moser also showed the importance of syndicates to the newspapers and told how Washington, D. C., at the present time is the capitol of the world's news, and to understand Washington, one must understand Washington news.

A clear picture of what propaganda is and its uses was presented by Miss Moser, who, in closing, cited 12 important rules for the reader to observe to understand the news as he should.

Refreshments were served buffet style in the dining room.

Mrs. Walter Mickey, president, who conducted the business meeting, was honored with a handkerchief shower. She will leave Mansfield the latter part of this month to reside in Cincinnati. Mrs. Bart Haley was the only guest.

Mrs. Frank Breckenridge, West Townview Circle, will entertain the Beta chapter at its next meeting, scheduled for Feb. 3.

Hats Will Develop Children's Pride

Dr. Baumgartner's research in children's health for the last 20 years equips her to speak with authority both on the physical and psychological aspects of youngsters.

In her opinion, children's hats are essential for health. Bare heads exposed to rain, snow and wind often result in colds and influenza, which leads to more serious infections. Dr. Baumgartner advises, "Keep your child hatted for health, especially during these troubled times, when the shortage of doctors make it a patriotic duty not to tax the family physician."

Children may be displeased with clothes that well-intentioned parents select for them. Mothers are often disturbed when their children dash out of the house bareheaded. If youngsters had more of a voice in selecting their clothes, this wouldn't happen. Give Jimmie and Janie hats they like and watch them run to put them on.

Little girls tend to be self-conscious, not only about clothes, but about their whole appearance, as they may imagine that they are not as pretty as Dorothy Jones. This is particularly true if they wear glasses. Hats do much toward giving youngsters confidence and poise, because youthful, face-framing hats make them look well dressed and pretty. Many a cute hat has nipped a budding inferiority complex.

"Let your child dress himself," concluded Dr. Baumgartner, "Wiggling into his own sweater and putting on his own hat brings out the sense of responsibility and makes him independent . . . a big help these days when parents are busy with war work."

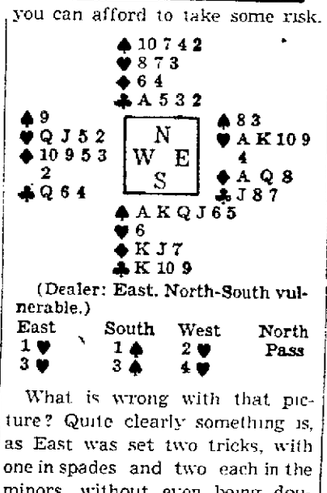
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

TIMIDITY NOT CAUTION

It is all right to be cautious and endeavor to avoid over-bidding But timidity is not caution, and under-bidding is not conservatism in rubber bridge. The way that the scoring of the game is adjusted, it pays you in the long run to have your unmakable game contracts outnumber your less-than-game contracts on deals which can produce a game. That may sound a little involved, but think it over. The point is that it pays you so much more to score a game that you can afford to take some risk.



(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
1 ♥	1 ♠	2 ♥	Pass
3 ♥	3 ♠	4 ♥

What is wrong with that picture? Quite clearly something is, as East was set two tricks, with one in spades and two each in the minors, without even being doubled. Assuredly he "got off light."

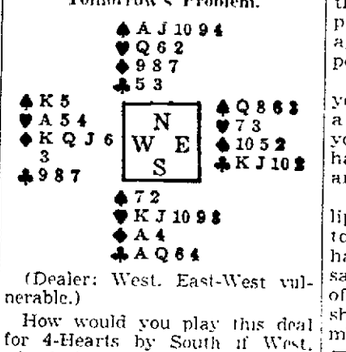
Both North and South blamed each other for not getting to the spade game which could be made with the loss of one trick in each suit outside of trumps. South insisted that, after he had bid unaided to the level of three — a reaching out for nine tricks without ever hearing from his partner —North should have called 4-Spades on his last turn instead of passing.

Back came North with the assertion that South was at fault, and should have bid 2-Spades on his first overcall instead of a minimum 1-Spade That, he said, would have told him the story and made it easy for him to reach the game.

When they could not settle this, a kibitzer was asked his opinion. He suggested a double of 1-Heart That would have made possible several things—a business pass if North was loaded with hearts a No Trump if he had a few honors, including heart stoppers, and in any event South could bid his spades later if necessary.

* * *

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: West. East-West vulnerable.)

How would you play this deal for 4-Hearts by South if West, who had opened with a diamond bid, leads the K of his suit?

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

I was divided between horrified astonishment and an unholy desire for laughter when I had swung open Mary's outer door the length of the night chain, and saw the source of that terrifying noise of kicking.

Winters had been kicking the door because he could not use his hands to knock. Each large, powerful hand held a slender masculine figure at arm's length by the coat collar, and Mary gave a shriek as she recognized in the furious, squirming men her husband and her leading man

"Better let us in quick," Winters said, "or there'll be a row here in the corridor, and you won't want that."

I had undone the chain and as I flung the door open Winters fairly lifted the two men in.

I put up the chain, swung Mary around so that her back and mine were towards the three men, then spoke to her prison fashion.

"Don't talk unless I give you the signal," I said. "Let me handle this!"

Winters Explains.

Both Noel and Redfield had ceased struggling. Noel too proud to struggle futilely, Redfield too frightened, although trying hard to hide his cowardice.

I knew that I had to walk warily. I spoke crisply.

"What is the meaning of this?"

No one answered for a moment, then Winters turned to me with deferential speech.

"It was all very sudden, Mrs. Graham," Winters said. "Something must have been wrong with the elevator I had rung for, which was very slow coming down. Before it reached us one going up stopped at this floor and Mr. Noel Veritzen got off.

Then Mr. Veritzen came up to Mr. Redfield and said 'What are you doing on this floor? He was quiet, but I knew by his eyes there was trouble coming, so I stepped a bit in front of Mr. Redfield. Mr. Redfield laughed and said: 'What should I be doing on this floor? You live here, don't you? I'll give you three guesses, and they'll all be right.'

"Then Mr. Veritzen dived for Mr. Redfield, and I caught him by the coat collar. Then Mr. Redfield tried to hit Mr. Veritzen and I caught him by the coat collar, and scooted them both over here. There wasn't a soul in the corridor."

His voice betrayed his scorn of Redfield and his sympathy for Noel. I saw the whole picture, as I knew Mary did.

"I am infinitely grateful to you, Mr Winters," I said. "You have saved us unpleasant notoriety. Now if you will kindly take Mr. Redfield to his apartment, you will add to my obligation."

Noel's Promise.

"I'd like to do that, Mrs. Graham," Winters replied, "but I can't unless I let go of Mr. Veritzen, and then I don't know what—"

"You don't need to stay on my account," Noel said, speaking with difficulty. "I can wait to deal with him. I give you my word I'll not touch him here."

His tone held a sinister promise that Redfield evidently understood, for he cowered when Winters released his grasp on Noel's collar.

The next instant Redfield was being propelled toward the door by Winters who had lowered his hand from the actor's coat collar to his elbow.

"I'll come back in the quarter of an hour you mentioned," Winters told me as he, with Redfield in tow, went out of the door. It had barely closed after them, when Noel looked steadily at Mary.

"That swine came here to see you," he said with savage accusation in his voice.

Career Girl Must Be Fastidious

By MME. QUI VIVE

You've got a job. Maybe it is the first job you ever held down. You find time chasing at your heels. Perhaps you haven't got your life readjusted to regular hours, don't know precisely how to get yourself organized. This is true of girls who have just graduated from high school into business careers.

There's that terrible half hour of hustling in the morning. Got to change that No time then to sew on a button, mend a rip in a stocking. You've got to keep your wardrobe in order on your day off Can't shirk those little chores A stitch in time saves you from losing the bus or train and getting dark looks when you blow into the office 20 minutes late.

Before you go to bed lay out the clothes you are going to wear. Take a look-see at shoes and gloves. High school girls have gone in for casual if not sloppy appearance, for some strange reason, but that's all in the past for the business girl. Her shoes must be correct; they must be in perfect condition. Brush hat and coat, a habit that is often overlooked by women who are otherwise fastidious. Put clean hankies in your purse.

Tuck your hair into a wave cap, then it won't be a tangled mess in the morning If you find a few straight wisps circle them into pin curls. Cream your hands and face.

The next thing is to get as much sleep as you can to make up for the wear and tear of activities. Don't fancy that, because you are young, you can't play out. You have a nervous system and fatigue will raise the dickens with it. Fatigue also will show in appearance, taking the highlights from the eyes, spreading a veil of pallor over the complexion.

There goes the alarm clock! While the bath tub is filling, wash your face with soap and water, dry, apply a little thin cream or oil.

Give yourself a rousing scouring and you'll be in the "pink of condition." It's nice to have a cold shower or spray, but that's for you to decide. Anyhow, a brisk rubdown.

Into the under duds Remove the cream from your face, apply powder, rouge, then powder again, blending carefully. Brush powder from eyebrows and lashes.

As your frock must go on over your head—it usually does—wrap a towel or combing cloth around your shoulders and arrange your hair. Stray shafts on the collar aren't a pleasant sight.

Lastly, the application of the lipstick. Or perhaps you'd prefer to do the lip tinting after you have had breakfast. That's really safer, since you may drink some of it with your coffee. All that should take not longer than 25 minutes.

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, January 22.

Most auspicious auguries encourage the undertaking of major projects and objectives in connection with large corporations, diplomatic or political circles, secret bodies and other associations of an undercover, subtle or unique character While excellent results are possible yet there may be all sorts of treachery. The health may react to such trickery.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of exceptional opportunities for attaining success in connection with large organizations, political, diplomatic or fraternal.

A child born on this day may have splendid talents and aspirations, fitting it for a career in the public service or in affiliations with important organizations.

Learn Ways To Control Children

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.

Many parents wish to control the young child without constant punishment and scolding. Not all parents, however, are so frank as the mother who wrote the following:

"Dear Dr. Myers.—We have a boy 21 months old and during these 21 months neither my husband nor I have learned to handle him. Neither of us knew anything about children but we thought we'd know from instinct just how to go about bringing him up happily. None of our ideas seemed to work. We just can't make him mind unless we spank him. That lasts only until he decides he wants to get into or do something else. It's just spanking and scolding all day and every day and it's making me very cross and nervous.

"Sometimes we even regret having him, but when he puts his arms around us and kisses us or tries a new word or does some new trick we're sorry we ever had such thoughts. We really aren't sorry we have him, we just want to learn to be good parents so we can have a good boy and still have his love and respect when he's grown. Hoping you can help us, I am enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three cent stamp begging you to write me."

I did, assuring her that it is possible to guide a child well without scolding and with very little punishment of any sort. Here are excerpts from my letter to her.

At a quiet, relaxed time, you and your husband should sit down together and plan a program Dwell on this simple principle. You should make painful to the young child only a very few things he must never do, and pleasant many times more things he may do or you want him to do. Don't, therefore, punish him to make him do things. Persuade him, with eternal patience.

Rule out scolding and a sharp voice as a means of control. Agreeing on a few things this tot must never do, such as running into the street and a few objects he must not touch, such as the floor lamp, decide that every time he does one of these forbidden things he shall get instant pain, preferably a spanking, when you will say NO just in a moderate tone. Remember it must be instant or not at all, and there must be no exceptions. Therefore, one of you parents be right by the side of this tot always when he may be tempted to do these things, till he learns to avoid them permanently. Merely intercept him to keep him from other dangers.

Always when he must be punished for a definite forbidden act, have present or in mind attractive objects or activities he can turn to with pleasure.

During the many times when he is doing right be liberal with affection and approval. Don't hesitate to cuddle and fondle him.

Read to him often. Listen attentively as he talks and answer his questions. Learn to enjoy his scribbling, drawing, coloring, play with blocks, inventions with words or things.

Let both parents strive to be calm and cheerful, always working for poise and self-control.

I have prepared a selected list of books and pamphlets written to help parents guide the infant, child and adolescent happily, to be had without cost to you, by writing me in care of this paper enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

Solving Parent Problems.

Q. What do you consider the best way to teach a tot to avoid playing with matches and, when he has once started playing with matches and building fires, what is a good cure?

A. Teach the tot early the meaning of NO and include matches as one of the things he must never have or touch, seeing that he gets an instant spanking when he does Once he has practiced at setting fires, closely supervise him. Have Dad take the lad to a safe open field and have the youngster start fires continuously for several hours, hoping it will create a distaste for the activity. In the meantime, build him up with more love and affection and more interest in creative play.

ADMITS CASE FOR HEARING

High Court to Review Ashland County Land Judgment Dispute.

COLUMBUS — (U.P.) — The supreme court today agreed to review Ashland county court verdicts denying judgments of Mrs. Olive Mann against land of Anna E. Lash because suit to collect the judgments had not been brought before the deficiency judgments act was passed in 1939.

Mrs. Mann got mortgage judgments against the land in 1931 and got subsequent judgments which were levied by the Ashland county sheriff in 1932, 1933, 1934 and 1938. The county common pleas court denied execution of the judgments and was sustained by the district appeals court because collection suits had not been filed when the Deficiency Judgment act was passed.

Mrs. Mann claimed, in appealing the case to the supreme court, that the county courts were in error in their interpretation of the Deficiency Judgments act because her interest in the land had been kept alive by execution judgment prior to the act.

WAR HANDICAPS HOLMES DRIVE

Paralysis Fund Campaign To Be Waged By Mail, Chairman Reports.

MILLERSBURG — War - time conditions, gasoline rationing and lack of transportation facilities are combining this year to reduce the size and scope of the annual President's Birthday Ball program by which the national fight against infantile paralysis is waged.

Carl A. Hopkins, Millersburg attorney, who for the last several years served as chairman of the Holmes county President's Birthday Ball committee, announced today that the campaign this year will be conducted principally by mail and that the community parties, dances and entertainments which have in the past proved big factors in the success of the committee's fund raising efforts will be abandoned.

The effort to raise Holmes county's share for the continued battle against infantile paralysis will be just as determined as in former years. It is pointed out that despite the conditions of a war-time work, the need for these funds is just as great and the value of the work to relieve sufferers just as great as it has been in former years.

As in the past years, the campaign will end on Jan. 30, birthday anniversary of President Roosevelt. This week com collectors are being distributed to stores and other public places in the county for the contributions of those who wish to aid the fight. In addition, "birthday cards" containing slots to serve as receptacles for coins are being mailed out to contributors of previous years. These birthday cards are designed to be completed by the recipient by placing his contribution therein and then mailing direct to the president of the United States, or they may be forwarded to the local committee if the donor desires.

A WORD ABOUT BUYING ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

Everyone knows that careful planning makes for better buying. Things bought on the spur of the moment often turn out to be mistakes. And this is especially true of clothes

Clothes money has to do a special job these days. It's necessary to wartime morale for us to be well-dressed—for a feeling of confidence and well-being. At the same time, the clothes we buy should cost as little as possible: War Bonds are much more important. Wardrobes should be planned so that everything harmonizes with everything else, so that a few clothes will provide variety. The basis of every woman's wardrobe is a good coat. And a good coat must be bought with special thought. As always, we've planned our spring coat stock early so you can choose yours now, and pay for it in small weekly amounts. In that way you will have your coat when you need it, without a big all-at-once expenditure that might interfere with your regular purchases of War Bonds.

Your Federal Income Tax

NO. 16: COMPENSATION FOR PERSONAL SERVICES

The first item of income to be entered in the Federal income tax return is "Salaries and Other Compensation for Personal Services." This item includes, in general, all earnings and compensation from employment, and other income of a personal nature, such as prize winnings and the like. Compensation for personal services includes commissions paid to salesmen, compensation for services on the basis of percentage of profits, commissions on insurance premiums earned by insurance salesmen or agents, bonuses whether in cash or securities or goods, the value of board and lodging (where such is not provided for the convenience of the employer), earnings paid for in groceries, goods, or services (at the market value of such goods or services, and the like.

It includes the salary of a clergyman, as well as marriage fees, baptismal offerings, sums paid for saying masses for the dead, and other contributions received by the clergyman or priest, and not paid to the church. The rental value of a parsonage supplied is, however, exempt and need not be included; but if no parsonage is furnished and instead an allowance for a parsonage or quarters is given, the amount of this allowance must be included as income.

Transportation charges paid by the government on account of the transportation of families of military and naval personnel are in the nature of additional compensation and must be reported as income; but the allowances for quarters and for subsistence are exempt.

Persons in the military or naval service of the United States at the close of the taxable year, below commissioned grades, are exempt from taxation on compensation received during the year for such service up to $250 in the case of a single person and $300 in the case of a married person, and the exempt amount may be excluded in showing compensation received.

Old age and retirement pensions, except those paid by the United States to war veterans, must be reported, but where the employe has made contributions toward the pension fund, only a portion of the pension is considered as income. (For the manner of treatment of such compensation see Instruction 7 of return Form 1040.)

The earnings of a professional man, such as a lawyer or doctor in maintaining his own office, would not be entered under Item 1 as compensation for personal services, but under Item 9—Net Profit (or Loss) from Business or Profession. For purposes of the earned income credit (Item 25 of the return form) however, his professional income is considered as compensation for personal services.

The ordinary and necessary expenses incurred in connection with one's employment may be deducted in arriving at the net amount of salaries and other compensation for personal services. The amount of such expenses is shown on the same line with the income and the net amount is entered. An itemized statement of such expenses must, however, be attached to the return.

OUT OF THE WOODS

PITTSFIELD, Mass. (INS)—Mrs. Minnie Bennett Raymond, 87, wanted to show that she was patriotic and did it the hard way. She trundled her small "express wagon" two miles into the woods, where she knew there were two old stoves, broke them up with a heavy hammer and carted the pieces out to the highway to be picked up by the scrap collector.

CHAPTER VIII

That was the kind of thing and she deserved the credit she was given for her willingness about it all, and for her indefatigability. Not all of it was fun by any means. She overworked that summer, she lost weight and the bright beauty that was so much exploited it so many causes suffered somewhat as a consequence—she became temporarily a little drawn and white and she looked older. This was becoming, however, and appealing in its own way. She looked romantic and her eyes were glorious.

She was quite happy. She had been born to live like this—now was her moment in the world. Here was the scheme of things for which her temperament was planned.

She wrote to Phil. My darling, I'm in such a rush. I only have a minute so this must be just a note. She wrote swiftly, covering folders of her small sized note paper with her immense handwriting, in the minimum of time. There was no length to any of her letters, only spacious thickness. She ended them apologetically. Darling, forgive me. I'll write a real letter tomorrow. And at the very end she said, I love you. I do love you.

Sealing the envelopes, addressing them, she thought about him with real tenderness. He was dearest to her then—just then for some reason. She almost saw him then, almost remembered how his face was made, precisely how his features went together. If she caught and held her breath so that no slightest sound disturbed this instant's psychic stillness in her mind, she almost knew the timbre of his voice again, she almost heard him speak.

But that was all. That was the only time. It never lasted often she could not even make it happen any more. The rest was souvenirs and symbols, unconvincing and improbable. Phil was the phrase, my husband. He was a ring she wore. He was her new name in the papers and her new allowance in the mail. He was three photographs in silver frames, a service flag in a street window, a hundred once read letters tumbled in a desk window. He was these things and now one other thing, less tangible. Now, as the summer neared its end, he was the scene of guilt she knew she'd still to have and sometimes did have.

* * *

Someone had come down. This was inevitable. Out of the ceaseless match of unarmed young men through all her days one had emerged and surely this one was appointed and predestined, he had arrived who had been coming towards her always. She believed it. She had not waited for him or expected him and yet there was a kind of stormy recognition in the first protracted meeting of her eyes with his and in her mind there was a kind of shock of impact and her heart said, Who.

They had quarreled at sight in point of fact. Even before they met or spoke or heard each others names. Perhaps he had declared hostilities across the room. It had been part of the same moment and the outcome of the same long glance. She had no sooner recognized the presence in her mind than she had rallied angrily against it, saying to herself that this was nonsense, this meant nothing.

She knew her little failings and she thought, He's just good-looking. Don't be idiotic. She thought disdainfully. He knows it too. She let her eyes linger on his an instant longer, long enough so that he should perceive how cool she had become and then she turned her back in the heart shaped red frame of the tulle dress. I've seen good looking men before, her shoulders said. I've even seen Greek gods in army uniforms before. I'm not impressed.

But she was terribly impressed. He was almost too splendid—almost an overwhelming match for her, not for it all. She liked dark men and he was very dark with a brown flushing face marked out in black, black eyes and eyebrows and black curly hair. He would be sure to have superb white teeth for contrast when he smiled. You could just bet on it, she thought resentfully. She liked unusual height and he had that. She liked wide shoulders. She liked an athletic waistline almost concave in a Sam Browne belt.

There was no flaw in this perfection on its surface. She had found none while she stared at him and she could find none now, still studying his image in her mind with her mind's eye. It wasn't even perfect in the aesthetic sense—there was a good irregularity and ruggedness about it. He had eyelashes so thick and dark that they looked blackened like a woman's, but the rest of his face was a complete repudiation of this prettiness. No tailor responsible for the proportions of his uniform or for its look of grace or air the way he carried it. Men were made for war and women . . . Why did she think of that? Some German writer had said that. All else is follow, was the end of it.

And as if physical magnificence were not enough there were two complements that she had noted crowning touches. Ultimate affronts to her just now. Young as he was, he had a major's maple leaves for shoulder bars—and furthermore he had a hero's line of parti colored ribbon on his breast.

Hell be insufferable, she thought and almost hoped so.

* * *

She stood expecting him still with her back turned. She stood talking so absorbedly to someone else that even he with all his army's code, realize that his advent was of not the slightest interest to her. She knew that he would come, of course. She knew as well as he did. At this moment he was trying to find their hostess or some other mutual acquaintance to present him. She was so convinced of his that when he seemed a little slow about it she looked around again and saw him towering just behind her. She also saw that he quite understood why she had looked around. He smiled at her with lazy impudence.

He was alone. So he imagined that he didn't need to be presented? He said to Rosalie's vis a vis, Sorry to interrupt, and to her he said, I think this is the dance you promised me, and she heard in her most distant voice and manner, On the contrary, I don't.

But this was futile. They were dancing by that time.

You don't what? he asked blandly.

I don't think I've ever seen a more nightmarish performance. Do you always behave that way? I suppose you do.

Always when the spirit moves me, yes.

That would be rather often I should think. You show long practice.

You showed deep concern. Don't forget that.

I beg your pardon?

Oh, yes, he said. Profound concern. You had the most alarmed and searching look just as you turned around. Did you think I'd changed my mind about you?

Never.

I simply don't know what you're talking about.

You lie in your teeth.

It went on from there. In half a minute Rosalie was saying hotly, I knew you'd be insufferable but I had no idea . . . You're beyond words! In all my life I've never met a rude[r] more conceited, more arrogant—

Well exactly, he said. We're natural mates. That's the whole point.

And now you're being insulting. Just to cap the climax!

I'm being honest. Which is more than I can say of you.

* * *

They still didn't know each other's names when someone separated them. He had not asked hers—she decided on second thought that perhaps he did know it—and he had certainly not questioned him about himself under the circumstances. Instead she made a careless-sounding inquiry of the next man she danced with, thinking as she did so that he probably couldn't tell her—there were so many people here tonight. He could however. He said, Everyone knew Bailey Harker. Bailey Harker, Rosalie repeated automatically, and then she really heard it. Oh. Of Yale, you mean. He played football.

That's putting it mildly.

I remember now.

It didn't seem important any more but it had been. Two years ago or three—aeons ago. Back before boys were men. She remembered a game at Cambridge, herself sitting on the Harvard side watching the player everybody watched that autumn, Yale's great star, Harvard's great dread. Watch Harker, everybody said, if he gets loose. She remembered him small as a toy among the other tumbling, struggling toys in blue and red on the brown turf, a long way down from where she sat. She remembered feats of glory—what had passed for glory then—moments when he ran alone and free and fast enough, moments when they roared his name across the horseshoe like tremendous surf, and when they rose in a vast human tidal wave because of him. That Bailey Harker. So that was who he was—well, but of course she thought morosely. That was who he would be. Consistent all the way.

She said aloud, He's still around, is he?

Very much so, I should—

Still around being glamorous.

Rosalie went on deliberately, I see he's been to the war, and got himself covered with decorations and come back again. Once a hero always a hero—he's practically a professional, isn't he?

For Joyful Cough Relief, Try This Home Mixture

Real Relief. Big Saving. So Easy. No Cooking.

This splendid recipe is used by millions every year, because it makes such a dependable effective medicine for coughs due to colds. It's so easy to mix—a child could do it.

From any druggist get 2½ ounces of Pinex, a special compound of proven ingredients in concentrated form, well-known for its soothing effect on throat and bronchial membranes.

Then make a syrup by stirring two cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. It's no trouble at all. No cooking needed. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Put the Pinex into a pint bottle and add your syrup. This gives you a full pint of very effective and quick-acting cough medicine and you get about four times as much for your money. It never spoils and is very pleasant—children love it.

You'll be amazed by the way it takes hold of coughs, giving you delightful relief. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes and helps clear the air passages. Money refunded if not pleased in every way.
